

Dear [AEC/O Partner],

Thank you for requesting sustainability information from our team. We're thrilled you're asking as this is what ensures our ability to confirm it matters, its useful, and maintains our business case for continued investment.

That said, we've adopted mindful MATERIALS' Common Materials Framework and the associated Common Give templates to share our sustainability information and data consistently. As such, we're going to provide you our sustainability information using this template attached or linked here (which includes answers to all of your requests).

There are many firms also currently using the Common Materials Framework as a means to evaluate the sustainability aspects of our products, and their consistency in their ask drastically helps streamline our time in response. We'd love to see you join this movement and adopt the Common Materials Framework in your work.

You can learn more about the Common Materials Framework and mindful MATERIALS work in the newly launched CMF Implementation Toolkit. We appreciate you and happy to jump on a call to answer any questions you may have.

Thank you,
